Whereas, An ordinance in revision of the general ordinances of the Village of Peoria Heights is necessary and expedient for the government of said Village, and whereas, the same should be consolidated and arranged in appropriate chapters, articles and sections, and omissions should be supplied, defects amended, and the whole made plain and concise; therefore:

Be It Ordained by the President and Board of Trustees of the Village of Peoria Heights, Illinois, as follows:

CHAPTER 1.

Rules and Order of Business.

Rule 1. The regular stated meeting of the Board shall be held at the Village Hall in the Village of Peoria Heights, on the first and third Mondays of each month at 8 o'clock p. m., and special meetings shall be held at such times, as in the judgment of the President or any two members of the Board, it may be deemed necessary or expedient, notice of the special meeting being given to each member of the Board by the Clerk. The call shall be in writing, duly signed, and shall be presented to the Clerk, who shall proceed immediately to prepare written notices of the same and shall cause them to be served on the President and members of the Board by mail or in person. Such notices shall describe in brief the nature and object of the call.

At any special meeting the call for the same shall be read and afterwards filed with the Clerk, and no business other than that proposed by the call shall be in order at such meeting.

Rule 2. At the hour selected for the meeting, the Clerk (or someone appointed to fill his place), shall proceed to call the roll of members, mark the absentees, and announce whether a quorum be present. Upon the appearance of a quorum, the Board shall be called to order, the President taking the chair if present, and the Board appointing a temporary chairman if he should be absent. If a quorum does not appear, the Board shall not thereby stand adjourned unless by a vote of the members present. When a quorum is present the Board shall proceed to the business before it, which shall be conducted in the following order:

Section 7. The Electrician shall charge and collect from the person, firm or corporation doing any electrical work under the terms of this chapter the following fees, to-wit:

For issuing permit for any electrical wiring for any apparatus or fixtures in or on any building, structure or other premises, from one to one hundred outlets, fifty cents; and fifty cents for each additional one hundred outlets.

For inspection of wiring only, from one to twenty-five outlets, one dollar; and for each additional twenty-five outlets or fractional part thereof, fifty cents. All places where wires end, such as switches, brackets, center lights, end of circuits, etc., shall be considered an outlet.

For the inspection of fixtures, from one to twenty-five sockets or receptacles to hold lamps, one dollar; and for each additional twenty-five sockets or fractional part thereof, fifty cents.

For inspection of signs, from one to fifty receptacles, one dollar; for each additional fifty receptacles or fractional part thereof, twenty-five cents.

For inspection of arc or other lamps consuming three amperes or more, for one lamp, one dollar; for each additional lamp, fifty cents.

For inspection of motors, generators or other apparatus for one electrical horse power or less, one dollar; and for each horse power in excess thereof up to ten horse power, twenty-five cents per horse power; for ten electrical horse power, three dollars and twenty-five cents; and for each horse power in excess thereof, ten cents.

No inspection shall be made for less than one dollar. Reinspection made necessary by inferior material or workmanship shall be fifty cents for each reinspection so made. Inspection or permit for temporary work shall be charged for at half the above rates. All other inspections or reinspections not mentioned herein shall be charged for at the rate of seventy-five cents per hour, but no inspection shall be made for less than one dollar.

Section 8. The Electrician is hereby empowered to inspect or reinspect at his option all overhead, underground and interior wires and apparatus conducting electric current for light, heat or power, and when said conductors or apparatus are found to be unsafe to life or property, he shall notify the person or corporation owning, using or operating them, to place the same in a safe and secure condition within forty-eight hours. Any person or corporation failing or refusing to repair, change or remove the same within forty-eight hours from the receipt of said notice, or within such further time as the Electrician shall determine is necessary, shall be subject to the penalty hereinafter provided. The Electrician is hereby given the right and authority to disconnect or have disconnected any feeder wires furnishing current to any building or equipment in which any part of the wiring is not in accordance with the terms and provisions of this chapter.

Section 9. All poles carrying telegraph, telephone, electric light or street railway wires, and all covers for man-holes now in service or hereafter placed in service for the use of electric conductors, shall be branded or stamped with the name of the person or corporation owning the same; all electric service entrances shall have attached to the conductor or conductors in a conspicuous place, a substantial tag designating the owners, and giving such a full description of the conductors as shall meet with the approval of the Electrician, and all of said electric service entrances shall be properly equipped with approved cut-out service switches. Each building into which electric current shall be introduced shall have independent service from the street or alley, entering at right angles with the street curb, except where the service wires are placed in conduits complying with the rules of the Electrician; and no wires shall pass from one building to another through any party wall or along any building wall or over any roof or under any sidewalk, except where such conduits are used. No electric current shall be supplied from any trolley line for any purpose whatever to any building except for equipments or property occupied by the company furnishing current to said trolley lines.

Section 10. All wires must be of the approved new code. Weather proof wire may be used for outside work. No service wires shall be smaller than No. 10 B. & S. gauge, single or double braid rubber covered, if used with knob and tube work, and they shall be double braid, rubber covered, if used in conduit work. All joints must be so spliced or joined as to be both mechanically and electrically secure without soldering. The joints must then be soldered to insure preservation, and covered with one layer rubber tape and two layers friction tape, and painted with an approved insulation compound such as asphaltum or other compound equally as good. All electric work of all kinds must be done in accordance with the rules and regulations as adopted by the Electrician. No circuit shall contain more than 12 lamps, nor carry to exceed 660 watts, and no wire shall be used smaller than No. 14, B. & S. gauge new code, double or single braid, rubber covered, in knob and tube work, or new code double braid rubber covered in conduit work. All wires used in connecting lamps, motors, generators and other appliances of great wattage must have a conductivity equal at least to No. 6 copper wire B. & S. gauge, or sufficiently large to carry the load, except branch wires leading to incandescent lamps which have been heretofore provided for, provided, some approved automatic device is introduced into the circuit that will interrupt any excess of current passing into said branch circuit. Continuous wires shall be used as far as possible. All wires must be insulated and covered with non-inflammable material, and where running along walls and ceilings in open work, must be fastened on solid insulation in such a manner as to leave the wires at least one-half inch from the solid wall or ceiling. Generators, motors, lamps and other appliances, must be so mounted and secured as to be completely and continuously insulated from the ground. Each circuit connected and placed in position must show an insulation resistance between the ground and said circuit of not less than one megohm. Ground circuit will not be permitted. All wires must be separated from each other by a distance of at least one foot for arc lights, motors, or any high wattage equipment and not less than four inches (unless run on opposite sides of a timber) for incandescent circuits. Wires must be supported at least one inch from the surface with an insulator at least every four and one-half feet. On solid insulators the wires must not be wound around groove in drum, wound style, but must be given a half hitch or tie within themselves or be fastened by tie wires of equal insulation to the wires being tied. Standard split knobs are preferred and wires must never be laid in plaster or fastened with staples, and extra tube must be used where wires go through floors in order to prevent the plaster from coming in contact with wires. Tubes must be placed with head elevated. Where wires passing through tubes leave the straight line of the tube more than forty-five degrees, knobs must be used to keep the strain from the edge of the tube. Branch wires leading to incandescent lamps may be grouped when required, provided wires of the same polarity enter the same group. Whenever wires are connected through walls, floors or partitions, or cross one another, they must be surrounded by a solid insulated substance. Exposed portions of generators, lamps and motors must be protected by appropriate screens so as to prevent accidental contact with exterior objects. Arc lights shall be provided with glass globes, inclosed at the bottom so as to prevent the fall of ignited particles in show windows or other places where inflammable materials are; the lamps must be provided with spark arresters placed at the top of the globes or such other and different requirements as shall be at least equivalent in safety to those above mentioned.

Flexible conduit may be used where wires cannot be separated or spaced from surface as heretofore provided, but said conduit must be continuous from knob to knob, or knob to outlet, and must not be spliced. At least 30 ampere main line switches must be installed at the nearest possible place after the service enters the building so that the blades will be hinged at the lower end and so connected that the blades will be dead when the switch is open. The switches shall be fused with fuses not larger than 25 amperes unless it is necessary. If they are used as branch and main line combination they must be fused with nothing heavier than 10 ampere fuses, and branch cut-outs with nothing larger than 10 ampere fuses (six ampere preferred). Attics that are accessible must be wired the same as for concealed work and the knobs must not be run on the upper edge of joist.

For concealed work, standard outlet boxes with their proper fittings must be used on all outlets. Lamps that are operated at sockets from the ground or grounded floors or near accessible conductors leading to the ground, such as water or steam pipes, etc., must be of a non-conductor type, such as porcelain, weather-proof mica, etc. All strand wires, such as lamp cords, brewery cord, fixture wire, etc., must be twisted and sweated well with solder before being fastened under the binding screw of sockets, switches, rosettes, etc. All material must be of a standard or approved type, and all work made electrically and mechanically secure.

Section 11. It shall be the duty of the Electrician to keep a record of the examinations made by him pursuant to the provisions of this chapter, and make a report of the same to the Board at the first regular meeting of each month.

Section 12. Before any person, firm or corporation shall erect any poles or wires in any street or alley, he or it shall submit a plat showing location of said poles and wires and all details, to the Electrician, and no poles or wires or other apparatus pertaining to same shall be erected in any street or alley until the Electrician shall approve of the same.

Section 13. No alterations or additions shall be made in any electrical installation without first notifying the Electrician and submitting the same for inspection in the same manner as provided for new work.

Section 14. Any person, firm or corporation violating any of the provisions of this chapter shall be fined not less than five dollars, nor more than twenty-five dollars for each offense.
